Our Church was floodlit to celebrate VE Day on the 8th May

St John the Evangelist, Kenn

There is a Zoom Service on Sunday evenings at 6pm, led by people from all over the Yatton Moor Team.

If you have an email address contact Julia Bush to be put on the list for the link each week.

If you are 'internet free' she can pass on the phone number for the day, usually available in the morning.

The Church of England has decided that a named person may go into the church to say prayers for the local community.

Jenny Pascoe will be praying for us in church twice weekly.

If anyone in the village would like a particular prayer or a candle lit, please would they contact Jenny Tel 878451, alternatively Julia 873554 or John 078 1667 1304

A Message from Revd Tim Scott
Rector of Yatton Moor Parish

I'm writing this the day after Ascension Day. The Diocesan prayer for Ascension Day reads,

'We pray for all those who may feel like God is absent, that they would feel at peace and a new connection to God in whatever way that may come'.

At times of uncertainty and anxiety God can seem to be absent. The feast of Pentecost that the church celebrates on 31st May, when we remember the coming of the Holy Spirit, reminds us that God is present with us even if it doesn't feel like that.

Whilst our church buildings remain closed (and we long for the time when we can open them again) we are now in a position to allow an appointed and authorised person to go into the church building to say prayers for the local community.

I am delighted that in Kenn this person is Jenny Pascoe and do please let her know if there are things you would like her to pray for.

I hope this is both something of comfort to people and something which will enable people to feel the presence of God at this difficult time.

I'm also delighted to say that we have fixed a date for the licensing of Fran Binding as House for Duty priest with prime responsibility for Kenn and Kingston Seymour. The date is 3rd. August. Details will follow later as we are still not sure what form the licensing will take and whether it will need to be a virtual licensing! It is great however that we have a date as we look to welcome Fran. I know that she will be holding you in her prayers and please hold her in yours as she makes preparations for her move.

I continue to hold you all in my prayers and I pray that you will know the presence and the peace of the Risen and Ascended Lord and the power of the Holy Spirit within your lives.

May God bless you all.

Tim.

A message from Celia Andrews

May's annual Coffee Morning for Christian Aid took place not in the Church Room but in people's homes: kettles on, coffee mugs out.

I suggested (or John did on his machines) that they thought, and perhaps chatted, about the charity's on going work throughout the world.

A donation direct to the charity would be appreciated - but not compulsory!

Some people have told me they donated. It was different but the charity always needs people to recognise its work.

And from Julia Bush Christian Aid Week 2020

Many thanks to everyone who donated to Christian Aid Week, in which ever way you found possible.

As well as all its long term projects, Christian Aid is now engaged in helping developing countries combat the spread of Covid 19.

It's never to late to donate.

To give £5 to Christian Aid TEXT HELP to 70477 Thankyou,

Supper Club and News from the Drum

When we could not meet up for Supper Club in March I don't think any of us anticipated that we would come to this point and still not see any likelihood of Jamie being able to open up The Drum any time soon.

He still does his best to provide take-away meals to anyone who wishes to order.

He has decided to call Thursday night Burger Night and Friday, Fish and Chip night and continues to cook delicious roasts on Sundays.

He sometimes likes to cook lasagne if a group of people choose to order.

Fortunately for the future of our village pub he remains determined!

To order: You can email on jfthomas314@gmail.com

Otherwise phone numbers to use are: Jamie 07393 743471 or Josie 07821 197102.

Stowell/Hibbs Family Exercise on VE Day

LUNCH AT ST JOHN'S KENN.

Usually on the first Monday of the month, 12.00 noon to 2.00pm.

There will be no lunch at St John's in June and for the foreseeable future.

I have done the accounts for October 2019 until March this year.

£505 raised.

- £110 expenses.

- £50 start-up fund for next year.

= £345. I will send £345 to the food bank this week.

At the moment I am thinking we will not have the lunch again until Jan or Feb 2021. I know this sounds over-cautious. It will be best to wait and see, as lockdown restrictions are lifted, if there is a rise in corona cases and at worst deaths.

This is so we are all safe and we do not spread the Coronavirus.

Stay safe and well. Caroline.

As we bake in the Hottest, Driest May for a long time our thanks go to John Croxton for these fascinating facts.

Historic Weather Events.

January 1916 (yes,1916). Warmest January ever recorded in England!
Average temp. 6.3 C.

March 9th 1948. London temp. 74 f.

February 1949. 106 hrs Sunshine @ Kew

April 16th 1949. 84 C. Warmest Easter Saturday for 50 years!
So late 1890's temp.
was even higher!

July 7th 1949. Temperature in Bristol dropped 25F in 24 hours.

26th Nov - 9th Dec. 1952. Two weeks bad weather in Bristol with frozen snow and thick fog! Cumberland Basin frozen over. Ice on River Avon @ Bristol Bridge

December 5th 1952 Bristol temperature 19F = 13degrees F below freezing!

Thankyou so much for all my 70th Birthday Greetings on VE Day.

I had a lovely day, digital contact with family far and wide and cards, greetings and even a 'Happy Birthday' chorus over the gate.

Perfect. Julia

Bird News

Our summer visitor warblers have arrived in force and at the time of writing are enjoying the warm sunny weather. Swallows, House Martins and Swifts have done less well although surprisingly there was a party of about 20 House Martins over the new houses at North End, Yatton. A few migrant Wheatears also put in an appearance with three in Yatton on the 14th, one would you believe, photographed in Wheatear Road.

Bryan Thompson recorded a Sparrowhawk capturing a Magpie, but then, presumably having second thoughts, releasing it immediately. John Croxton also noted a Sparrowhawk albeit without the Magpie element and another bird was calling on Kenn Moor. But the prize for raptor spotting in May goes to Mr and Mrs Porter Senior who saw a Red Kite over the Hanging field in Kenn. Kites were also spotted at Yatton and Claverham.

Sarah Clark had been informed of a Cuckoo calling at Cadbury Hill and Jon Hobbs heard one from Duck Lane. What is likely to have been the same bird has been calling near Sandford, Congresbury and Yatton. I have heard this bird twice and seen it once and according to my records there has been the most Cuckoo activity locally since 2007. That said it does seem to be one very wide ranging individual. Another was calling near Wick St Lawrence and reported from the sea wall at Kingston Seymour. This is almost certainly another bird.

Sarah also reported two Green Woodpeckers feeding in her garden and one was calling in the Littlewood Reserve. Barn Owl sightings came from Congresbury Moor and whilst the warm settled weather will be beneficial to them lack of rain and grass growth could stifle vole numbers, their almost exclusive prey species.

And finally, a semi albino Blackbird has been frequenting Arnold's Way, Yatton. Quite an exotic looking creature, it has a white head and neck with a normal black body.

Trevor Riddle. 01934 835208.

The 26 times round the field walk.

I was watching young Frank Mills bravely doing his walk for charity when I wondered what I could do to raise some money for Weston Hospicecare.

I racked my brain, which didn't take long, for something I could do which meant I did not have to leave our land as we needed to follow government guidelines.

The field attached to our house is approx. 5 acres so I decided to walk 26 times round the field sticking rigidly to the boundaries.

Rain was in the air but the BBC weather forecast showed me a 6 hour gap in the afternoon. Off I set walking boots on, rainproof top (I didn't trust the forecast), long trousers and a hat.

The sheep were alarmed at first as I set out on this epic journey but after a while they just ignored me showing suitable disdain.

In the end it took me 4 hours and 20 minutes with a 5 minute "comfort break" and a quick cup of tea.

The generosity of my neighbours, friends and family has been overwhelming.

The total so far (with Gift aid) is just under £3500 made up of donations via my Virginmoneygiving web page and private cheques.

I have been raising money for 20 years organising golf days and tea parties resulting in the same amount of money but with a lot more work!

A big, big THANK YOU to all the people who donated to this deserving Charity. Weston Hospicecare, who do a fantastic job not only at the Hospice but also out in the community, need money because many of their spring/summer fundraising events have been cancelled.

So my Virginmoneygiving page is still open if you would like to help. We would also like to say a great big thank you to all the wonderful people who have helped us during the lockdown.

Lockdown - in the life of a Swan

The morning of Tuesday 17th March seemed a fairly 'normal' day for the time of year. I had been happily accompanying students for their Advanced Level Music Theatre exams in Bristol, but on returning home I found that all my adult students had cancelled their lessons for that day... and beyond.

From then onwards, teaching, and life as I knew it, suddenly stopped!

One positive thing came from the 'new normal' and that was, time for exercise! In a bid to escape the isolation of being in a house alone, I resurrected my old bike and started cycling along the Moors.

It was then that I discovered Swans! Two pairs of beautiful birds had built their nests very close to the road and didn't seem at all worried about traffic, or people stopping to take photos!

Over a period of 6 weeks I was fortunate enough to follow these Swans. The first pair were starting to incubate their eggs (6), so I had some idea when the Cygnets would hatch. It's usually between 35-42 days. The second pair had 2 eggs, laid precariously on a bank at that time. It takes a while for the nest to be built, and it continues to be built and maintained by both parties while the eggs are continuing to be laid, and there after.

An egg is laid about every other day and the male (Cob) is responsible for finding a suitable nesting spot. He will also pull out vegetation close by for his 'Pen', who will then add it to her nest.

Regarding incubation, it's only when the Pen finally sits on her complete clutch of eggs that the incubation process begins. The Cob will take over 'sitting duties', allowing her to go off to feed, but it's her higher body temperature which starts and maintains the incubation process.

This is why the eggs all hatch at the same time.

She will continually turn her eggs, so they all benefit from her body heat. She'll also pull out some of her feathers underneath (her 'brood spot') - which means the eggs will receive her maximum body heat.

The 'Courtship display' was something that I was really lucky to witness, not once, but twice! It was akin to a Ballet! The pair began by looking at each other (alternately turning their heads to admire their partner). They then started ducking their heads in and out of the water, up and down...until they eventually synchronised their actions.

After some time, their breasts met and there was more appreciation shown through 'looking'. This was also when the famous 'heart shape' of necks was formed.

Following that, the Swans draped their necks over each other, before copulation. The Cob then mounted his Pen from the side and held her head under water with his beak for several seconds (which could have looked like a drowning!!) but having witnessed and researched this behaviour, I can honestly say that it's perfectly normal!

Also, our 'Mute Swan' is anything but 'Mute'. Both male and female have quite a vocabulary - and definitely let out a 'groan' after copulation!

It was purely by chance that I came across these Swans, but they became (and still are) an important part of my life during 'Lockdown'.

They are a reminder that life goes on, regardless. The first pair were fortunate enough to have 6 healthy Cygnets, and have since moved on.

Tragically, the second Pen and her almost-hatched Cygnets were taken by a Fox.

It's heart-breaking, but it's also life. That Fox needed to feed itself and probably its own babies.

I have since come across another Swan's nest....and so it goes on....

Make the most of every moment, appreciate the 'here and now', and treasure those memories!

Some folk kindly put their copies of the North Somerset Times back in the church porch after they have read them.

Perhaps a few more of us could become sharers too.

Dreams

It was Martin Luther King who said "I have a dream" and it is a phrase which has stuck in the English language ever since he uttered it in 1963.

People have said to me that one of the benefits of the current lockdown is that it has given them time to slow down, think and reflect.

While I appreciate their viewpoint and where they are coming from I personally do not find that a benefit. I already had more than sufficient time to think.

However whether it is a benefit or not, life has slowed down and we do have more time to think and reflect.

And what do we think about? All those jobs we said we would do when we have time and now have realised that was only an excuse and there is no way they will ever get done?

Perhaps we think about what we will do, (or not do) in the future when life restarts?

Another phrase that has come into our language is "bucket list". To remind you, a Bucket List is a list of things to do before you die.

It identifies dreams that we want to make real. Lists concentrate the mind and put substance to those dreams that go around the mind and are a stepping stone to making them reality.

Of course we might want to keep the dreams as dreams

It is said every cloud has a silver lining. How about using this period of lockdown as an opportunity to review your hopes and dreams and then list and plan how you will actually bring them to pass ?

And finally, do you have any dreams for Kenn? One of mine is for safe roads. I have been hit by cars five times since moving to Kenn so I have a vested interest.

Martin Luther King could have kept his dream to himself but sharing it inspired whole sectors of America and its legacy is still felt today even though he did not see the fulfilment himself, so why not share your dreams for Kenn and inspire the rest of us?

Book group.

We will not be meeting in the pub for book group nor getting together anywhere else.

During these strange times of the Coronavirus we have to keep ourselves and everyone else safe.

Despite this book group will continue.

We all seem to be very busy and filling our time during the lockdown. There must be some mathematical equation that as spare time expands it still gets filled up with things to do.

We have still been reading but not any more than usual as there is so much to do!

Next week we are going to have a zoom meeting. Most of us are now used to doing courses and meetings on zoom.

Book group on zoom will be a hoot. If anyone would like to join us you will be very welcome. You can just share your current read.

June. 2020. Share and swop what we are currently reading.

Stay safe and well. Book group.

HATHOR AND THE HEAVENS:
The wonders of Dendera temple

With Lucia Cahlin & Dr Bernadette Brady
Saturday 30th May & Saturday 6th June ONLINE
Room opens from 1.30, lectures from 2-5 (with a break)

One of the most spectacular temples to survive from Ancient Egypt is the temple of Hathor at Dendera. Lucia will take you on a tour of the iconic monuments that make up this Graeco-Roman Period temple complex, dedicated primarily to Egypt's most important goddess. We will explore the architecture, alongside the extensive reliefs and inscriptions carved on the walls. We will discuss these intricate scenes and texts and find them to be a window into ancient Egyptian belief and daily life: rituals, festivals and the mythology of Hathor, one of the most important deities in the Egyptian pantheon. Linked with the richness of Hathor's mythology is the cosmology and cultural astronomy of the temple, a jewel in the crown of Egyptian astronomy. Here the Egyptian cosmology and mythical descriptions of the heavens meet and combine with the emerging Greek view which was destined to dominate the western world's images of the sky. Bernadette's first lecture will focus on the ceiling of the Hypostyle Hall and its mixture of the mythology of the Sun and the Moon blended with the Greek zodiac and the elusive imagery of the Egyptian decans. Here we will see the sky through Egyptian eyes. In the second lecture we go up to the roof for the round zodiac, a Rosetta Stone where Greek and Egyptian astronomy blend and where also we find a series of unique and breath-taking Egyptian cosmological maps.

Lucia Cahlin is an Egyptologist based in the UK. She is an Honorary Research Associate at University College London's Institute of Archaeology, lectures widely, and gives guided tours of museums with Egyptian collections. She has worked at the Petrie Museum of Egyptian Archaeology in London, and continues to teach in this museum. She chairs the Friends of the Petrie Museum. She has worked as the Small Finds Registrar at the archaeological site of Tell el-Amarna in Egypt, and has led tours to Egypt for over 20 years. Her publications include Egypt: gods, myths and religion.

Bernadette Brady holds a PhD in Anthropology (2002) and MA in Cultural Anthropology and Astrology (2005). She is currently a tutor in the Sophia Centre for the Study of Cosmology in Culture at the University of Wales Trinity Saint David, UK. Bernadette was the course director for the 2019 RGS at Luxor on Egyptian Astrology and has lectured widely on this subject.

Kenn W.I.

At the May meeting of the Kenn W.I. we were to have welcomed Diane and Peter Woolf who were going to tell us about their pilgrimage to Santiago de Compostella last year.

In June we were hoping to be told about a subject dear to the hearts of all North Somerset dwellers.

Tim Bush was coming to talk about the Drainage Board.

The thinking now is that the W.I. will just transfer its programme to 2021 (hopefully) and we look forward to hearing these speakers in May and June 2021 if they are available.

Members have been keeping in touch by telephone and all other means available to them. So far all are well and only one has succumbed to a mild dose of the virus and has recovered.

It would appear that all W.I.'s are doing the same thing to keep in touch with their members and each other.

Avon Federation is producing its Newsletter electronically and every member receives a copy of the magazine W.I. Life. It is posted to members' homes and is an interesting read while sitting in the garden with a cup of tea.

This month there was news of the various campaigns that the WI is involved in, recipes, a sewing project, puzzles, a book club, an article about the Land army and news from WI's around the country.

There is no sign yet of our next meeting and we shall probably just be so pleased to be together again that we shall just sit and talk.

WE will all be delighted to welcome anyone who wants to join us.

Until that time it is hoped that everyone, and their families, will stay safe and well.

Ann Holtham
